LEGEND.—The mountain forests of Pasteria are inhabited, it is said, by Pixtes, Sprites and Elves who, like the Phantom Dancers of Germany, delight to entrap travelers into their reains, and torment them with their mischlevous autics. Having the power of transferring the spirit, they often, in their malicious gambols, give life to the newly dead. Statues, rocks and trees are seen fantastically moving in the forest; but it is only during the Day they retain their fictitious existence; at the approach of Nigur they resume their immobility.

THE CHILD MEDIUM.

A TALE OF SPIRITUALISM.

By the author of "My Confession." The Story of a Woman's Life," &c.

12mo. Cloth. Price 75 cents.

The sifted authores says in her Preface:

"In the following story it has never been my intention to influence the reader for or against Spiritualism. I am no believer is it myself, and shall not probably further investigate the subject. That the phenomena, bearing the title, are gradually assuming a most wonderful form, and are destined at some day very materially to affect the prospects of this good, free land, no one can doubt who remembers that within a few years Spiritualism was unknown, and that at the present time there are not many families in the Union who do not boast a 'medium' among their number.

"I have had no other object in preparing this volume than to present to the public, in the form of a domestic story, the varieus incidents of Spiritualism which, from time to time, have fallen under my observation. Some of them I have witnessed myself, and for many of the others I have the best of living attestation."

country, which the author has spared no pains and the publishers no expense, to make a correct, interesting and elegant standard Text-book for the Schools of the United States. It is embellished in the most coatly manner with appropriate Pictorial Illustrations, Maps and Plans of Battle-Fields, so often essential to the lucid delineation of military movements. The author has gone two riginal sources, and thus avoided many of the current errors into which his predecessors have fallen. He has simed to be simple, that youth of lower as well as advanced classes may understand him; clear, that no indistinct or erroucous impressions may be conveyed; accurate in the recital of facts; and interesting as regards both matter and style. Avoiding fragmentary statements, he has gone into detail sufficiently to show events in their connections, convinced that facts other wayse, maging it both the best and cheapest in the market.

TWO NOVELS EVERY MONTH.

WAVERLEY AND GUY MANNERING

Will be ready Saturday, May 9.

This edition is superior and preferable for its convenient size, clearness and boldness of type, its uniformity with all the standard issues of the best American and English authors, and completeness of each Novel in one Volume by itself, -studiously avoiding the disagreeable continuation of a Tale from book to book. All the volumes are light, handsome, pleasant and convenient to held for perusal.

Now Complete and Ready in 27 volumes.
Price *16 per set, or 62%, per volumes.
These, containing all the additions and improvements, are the same-sized volumes and type as the finer edition, printed on handsome and clear paper, tastefully and substantially bound in muslin, also in sheep and half morrocco at a small advance. They are equally durable and readable with the FRESIDE EDITION. PEOPLE'S LIBRARY EDITION.

THE WAVERLEY NOVELS.

THE WAVERLEY ANECDOTES.

With 16 inc llinstrations. Price 61. May 9.

This book contains, written in a most attractive style, an historical account of the principal characters, scenes, traditions, &c., on which the nevels are founded.

In it also will be found, interwoven throughout with the anecdotes, a description of the manners, costumes and superstitions of the different clans and nations at the time they figure in these works.

of the different clans and nations at the time they figure in these works.

It is a book of rare interest, abounding in beautiful descriptions, and exciting and pleasing incidents: and to those who would fully enjoy and appreciate the WAVERLEY NOVELS, it will be found an indispensable companion.

Copies of either edition sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price. For sale by Booksellers everywhere. Agents wanted in every town in the United States and Canadas.
